FIVE STORY BUILDING TO ACCOMODATE BIG CHEMICAL INDUSTRY

HEGIRA OF CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES TO RICHMOND IS EVIDENT IN SURVEY OF STEGE DISTRICT

Construction of a $250,000 chemical plant on the site of the old Metropolitan Match company in Stege, will begin by the end of this month, it was announced yesterday by R. T. Orendain, superintendent of the Lacquer Chemical Company works.

A spur track leading from the Stauffer Chemical Company's line, was laid several months ago, to the site of the plant. In addition a drag line and trestle have been erected. By means of the trestle 6,000 tons of peach pits has been unloaded to form in several hugepiles.

DERIVE THREE PRODUCTS

The three main products of the plant, charcoal, acetic acid, and wood alcohol, will be derived from the peach stones. The raw material has been shipped from Santa Clara, Oakland and Sacramento, and Germany.

The plans for the plant were approved recently, and Orendain announced that word from the San Francisco offices of the Western Industries, would start actual construction. Western Industries is backing the project. Orendain, who is the superintendent of the new Laquer Chemical works, will also have charge of the plant to be built.

BUILDING 5 STORIES HIGH

E. J. Fry of the Meiggs, Bassett and Slaughter company of Philadelphia, who supervised the building of the Laquer chemical company plant, will direct the work on the new project. The building will be 80 by 50 feet and will be five stories high. It will be situated on the trestle and will be of brick. It is reported that the brick work will be done by a San Francisco contractor.

The coming of the plant to Richmond marks the steady trend of chemical industries to this city. Four chemical plants will be grouped south of the Southern Pacific tracks at Stege with this addition. Wheeler, Reynolds and Stauffer. The Stauffer Chemical Plant just opposite, the Laquer Company and the acetic acid plant make up the four.

LAQUER CO. OPERATES

Orendain also announced that the Laquer Chemical plant was operating at full production now. The company is shipping out 3000 pounds of nitrated cotton a day. Nine men are employed at the plant.

WORK AT WINEHAVEN

This is a part of the work that must be done preparatory to placing the channel in such condition that the big tankers of the Doheny company can enter the Richmond harbor, without any trouble.

Kris Kringle To Participate In Merchant Plan

Santa Claus will pay his first visit to Richmond for the 1927 holidays, November 29, when the famed gentleman arrives from his home in the north by airplane, according to word received yesterday by the Richmond Merchants association, which is sponsoring Christmas activities.

Owing to the press of visits, Santa Claus will remain but a few hours, presenting the children of the city with gifts from his bag. He will then leave for other California cities. But that will not be the last of him in Richmond.

He has promised to return December 12, and remain here for two weeks, sauntering along Macdonald avenue, where all the children can meet him and tell him their needs for Christmas.

Another of the features of the Christmas activities planned by the merchants will be a mammoth community tree in Memorial park.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club have been asked by the Merchants association to be judges for the slogan contest which ends November 29. The merchants are enthusiastic with the replies received in the contest.

More than 100 slogans have been received to date at the association headquarters, 337 Tenth street. Clifford Anglim, secretary, said yesterday that slogans showed originality and proved that the people of Richmond are cognizant of the benefits of buying early.

New Line To Fill Long Felt Want Here And On Pacific Coast

Filling a long felt want on the Pacific Coast, construction of a new pottery to manufacture industrial porcelain will be begun this morning by W. A. Potter, well-known Richmond man, on Kearney street and the Santa Fe tracks, between Manila street and Schmidt Lane, El Cerrito.

ASK BUILDING PERMIT

Potter will have as his assistants in the new enterprise George Wood and Walter Banner, also local men. The plant building will be 50 by 112 feet in dimensions, and will be of brick construction. A building permit was applied for yesterday.

Clay for the specilized product will be procured in England, and several western states. Two kilns will be utilized to turn out the pottery ware.

FILLS WANT

There is at the present time no factory on the coast which produces the type of ware that is contemplated by the new concern. Chemical firms as well as large industrial concerns have been forced to send to eastern markets for the product.

BIG DEMAND

With the growth of the chemical industry in the Stege district, a demand for the specialized pottery has constantly increased as new firms located. The Standard Oil company and the Giant Powder company are also large users of this line of goods.

The brickwork on the pottery building will be done by Pryce Roberts, and the carpentering by Joe Watson.

Blocking Of Water Way Is Discussed

The keeping open of a water way on Fall street that was blocked up by M. Mozzkowsky brought up quite a discussion at the meeting of the council last night. Finally the matter was left in the hands of the city attorney and city enineer.

Mozzkowsky insists it is the duty of the city to take care of flood waters, but he was informed by City Attorney Carlson, that the law provides that property owners cannot block natural waterways and it was up to him to remedy the trouble.

Work on the Stege plant of the Valley Concrete Pipe Products Company will be begun by next week, T. D. Williamson, manager of the concern affirmed yesterday.

EQUIPMENT MOVED

At the present time, equipment is being moved from Los Angeles and Yuba City to be installed in the local plant. These are the plants of the company on the Pacific Coast and practically one half of the Yuba City equipment will be utilized here.

An initial investment of $100,000 is being made, and the plant will be expanded to equal the amount of business.

Occupying a three-acre site, the company has installed already a storage building and a 150x150 concrete floor, and preparations are being made to erect the large buildings necessary to house the operations of the company.

SMALL FORCE AT PRESENT

For the time being a force of approximately 10 men will be kept at the plant, but in all probability, Williamson declared, it would be necessary to expand the working force to 75 or 80 within a short time.

MAY EMPLOY 80 MEN

"We believe that in Richmond we have found a site that will have many more advantages than any other in the bay district. At Yuba City we employ over 80 men at certain times and a large force is consistently maintained."

TAX REDUCTION

The season of tax reduction is at hand. Congress is about to come into session and in the meantime the important Ways and Means Committee is considering the question of finances. We will hear a great deal about tax reduction in the next few months and some sort of tax reduction there will be. This year it seems that republican and democratic leaders are pretty generally agreed on the kind of tax reduction we ought to have. They feel that the corporation tax ought to be reduced and some of the surtaxes cut down. The difference of opinion is not so much on the kind of reduction as on the amount of it. Some of the leaders want a reduction of $400,000,000 or over while others and in this class includes most of the administration leaders, think that the cut ought not be more than $250,000,000. Their argument is that we cannot estimate the financial condition of the country a year hence and that any reduction over $250,000,000 may imperil the present program of debt reduction, a program which by all means ought to be continued. It would seem therefore that those who advocate a more moderate reduction have the better of the argument.

It might be well to call attention to the fact that while the American people are taxed to the extent of $7,500,000,000 each year, the greater part of the money goes not to the federal government but to the state and local units. The national government collects a great deal less than the smaller units.

It is the local taxation which is now the real burden on the ordinary consumer. Local taxation is one of these conditions which has handicapped the farmer. While the federal government is steadily reducing taxes the local governments are making no such moves. After all, the people are themselves to blame for this. They vote the taxes on themselves. It is the people business and they do the paying and suffering. But attention cannot be called too often to the importance of reducing local taxes. Economy and efficiency are as necessary to the local as to the national government.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Miss Reyna Crowe was born on November 18, and is therefore under the rule of Scorpio. She is a writer and a film critic, and in her work displays many of the characteristics of Scorpio. She is unusually versatile and is deeply interested in decoration and design.

Reginald Denny, the popular screen hero, celebrated his birthday yesterday.

I have pointed out many of the faults of Scorpio, but some of the greatest characters are found among the men and women who were born under the rule of this sign. No difficulty, however tremendous it may be, can daunt the Scorpion who, through experience, has learned to distinguish between discord and harmony. Such people are conscious of their own power. They are filled with vital force and such intensity of purpose that no task is too great for them to undertake. Their amazing energy and endurance fit them for positions of power, where leadership, resourcefulness and determination are required. They may be stern and uncompromising, but they do not hesitate to sacrifice their own personal wishes for the sake of duty.

Many inherent faults of character could be eradicated in childhood if the different temperaments were analyzed and better understood by parents and teachers.

Those born between the 12th and 23th of November are to some extent under the influence of the sensitive sign of Cancer, but, of course, Scorpio has the greater power over their destiny. The influence of Cancer and its ruler, the Silver Moon, makes mid-November Scorpions very sensitive and dependent upon affection. Like all Scorpions, you who were born at this time may glory in the knowledge that you are powerful because of your vital strength, because of what you have accomplished or because you have great wealth, but deep in your nature is a craving for love and understanding which mere success can never satisfy.

Scientist To Spend Winter On Icebu g

As winter's chill draws nearer would you swap your comfortable home for a dwelling on an iceberg? That is what John B. Simpson, British scientist has just done, according to Popualr Science Monthly. With a dog and a phonograph for company, he recently left England with the intention of making his home for three months on an ice floe.

"My purpose, Simpson said "is to gather material for a book on the icefields. I expect to be very comfortable on some drifting on some iceberg. I shall erect a furlined tent, and warm it with an oil stove. I have plenty of reading matter and a phonograph."

Where his frigid domain will drift to Simpson has no idea; however, he says he has a collapsible rubber boat which would keep him afloat in an emergency.

WOMEN DO HEAVY LABOR IN FRENCH COAST TOWN

Nearly all old women do the heavy work of porters in Dieppe, France, in the fish markets and on the beach, carrying heavy loads of stone weighing 150 to 200 pounds on their backs.

These women plod from the fishing boats to the market and from the beaches to the dumping grounds carrying heavily loaded baskets. Their cheery countenances indicate that they are not overburdened. The stones are exported to England for the manufacture of porcelain. They must be carried through sliding shingle up a steep grade to the carts. Here the carriers dump their loads by making a deep bow and allowing the stones to rush out over their heads.

What Your FACE TELLS

BEWARE THE STONE-CRUSHER HANDSHAKER

There is the type of vigorous person who comes at you with a grip that makes you wince. It is the individual who is more vigorous and rude than delicate or refined. There may be fond affection and great kindness, but it is as crude as it is hearty. Such a disagreeable greeting is anything but friendly, since it causes actual pain.

Where the grasp is cruel, ardent and vigorous, so is the disposition. If the grasp is weak, formal and without emotion, so is the character. Again this vigorous, ill-bred squeeze indicates egotistical, selfish, rude, unthinking persons. Particularly those who have abundant energy sometimes attack their friends in this cowboy fashion.

The right kind of handshaking carries one far in the world of friendship. Here is a bit of advice for the individual who wishes to give a friendly handshake: Clasp the hand of the man you are greeting warmly, letting the palm rest against palm. Look him in the face as you shake his hand. Such is the handshake of the man who is generous with his kindly feelings and his services to his fellow men.

YOUR MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

By Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

What do our column readers think about a woman who hesitates between bestowing her affection on her husband or a dog? It seems to me that Mrs. N. is taking quite the right view of the matter and that it is rather up to her to act and that wisely—in getting rid of the dog.

SAYS THE WOMAN
Dear Patricia Lee—

I have been married fifteen years and have seven children. I am not a married flapper by any means. My husband is so ugly to me that I wish you would tell me what to do. I have a little Pekinese dog that had a good pedigree and is a lovely dog. The children all love it and so do I but my husband is very mean to it. When he has been drinking he tells me to throw it out of the house. He is a jealous man, too. He doesn't like me to pass the time of day with the ice man or the insurance man or any of the men that come to the house on business. He works hard though and gives me $35 a week for the house expenses and he pays the rent and other things. He is so ugly though and I want to keep my little dog, but he says no. What will I do?—MRS. N.

I am sure that if the little dog that you are so fond of causes so much trouble between your husband and yourself, as you infer, I would certainly get rid of the dog and quickly. Maybe that sounds harsh to you, but after all, your husband is a human being and supposed to be the one you love best in all the world.

Try to reason with him about the dog, if you want to, but if what you say is true, I think that without the dog in the house things might go along better. You admit that your husband is jealous. You say that he is jealous of the ice man, the insurance man, any man that comes to the house on business. Has it never occurred to you that he is jealous of the dog? It may sound silly to you, but no doubt your husband resents seeing you pour your affection on a dog. After all, a man who makes a good living for his family and is true to his wife is not to be scorned.

I don't think there is any cause for John A. to worry about marrying his cousin three times removed, but do think that if he is as keenly interested in his wife-to-be happiness and the welfare of the family he may some time have that his marriage will be a success without a doubt.

SAYS THE MAN
Dear Patricia Lee—

Perhaps you can give me the information I want. There is something that has bothered me for quite a long time and maybe you can straighten it out for me. What I want to know, first, what is the relationship between myself and my second cousin's daughter? Then, secondly, I want to know if I marry this girl and if we should have children is there any danger of them being deformed or not normal in any way on account of our relationship? Is there any book I could get to give me some information on this second question?—JOHN A.

The relationship between you and your second cousin's daughter is cousin three times removed. You ask if you should marry your third cousin if there is any danger that any children you might have of the union might be deformed or mentally deficient? No, indeed! not due to the fact that the parents are related. Although authorities differ somewhat on this question, I think you will find that they agree that relations as distant as third cousins can marry. I am sure that if you go to your nearest library the attendant there will help you get books on the subject, and I know you will find them decidedly interesting. If you are a communicant of a church that has laws governing marriages with the church, I would suggest that you consult your pastor.

How To Earn Money!

If you should read all the letters that come to me from day to day and see how many of them come from "young married women," you would be so proud of these young people. They are attempting to prove a real help-mate to their husbands for the most part and often explain that it is to "save for a home of our own" or to "help get my husband started in business" or to "help run our Ford that we got so much pleasure from." The letters show a wonderful spirit-the very spirit that is so necessary in attempting to do the unusual, to start out for one self in a new endeavor, to pioneer in the making money-at-home sphere.

It is my ambition to earn money enough at home to give my two children music lessons, I cannot go away from home to take any kind of a position, I would like to sell greeting cards verse and would appreciate it if you could give me the addresses of some company that uses such verse. Is there any magazine published inthe West similar to the Writer's Magazine published in Springfield, Mass.? G. E. T.

I have referred several times, I think, in the column to the Manuscript Guide, and you will get all the information there that you ask for. Most libraries keep a current copy of it on hand and any book shop can get one for you.

Will you advise me on conducting a little shop on the lines of a woman's exchange? Where do you think a good locality would be to start and how can I go about reaching people who would want to buy? M. H. H.

I am afraid you will have to tell me a little more of your plans and something of the locality where you live and if your idea is to start such a shop in your own home or "downtown" as it were.

Remember if you go back on your word that light goes out—I will have my finger on the switch from the moment you enter the room—and as soon as it goes out your young friend will be red from his own blood. Understand?"

"Yes, I understand." Her shudder of terror was almost a chill.

"All right, men," ordered Buckwell. "Cover her eyes and take her back."

While Dolores was again being conducted through secret openings and passageways up to the Chinese bedchamber, Buckwell followed along to the hall entrance of the living room where his assembled enemies were impatiently waiting his arrival.

Opening the door, he felt the tenseness of the atmosphere, but

"I'm afraid, Lu Fong, that your hatred of me has at last carried you too far."

chose to ignore it. "I am sorry to have kept you waiting," he apologized, removing a hat that he had picked up from the hall table. "I was unexpectedly detained at a conference a few blocks away."

There was a long pause. Some of the men believed him, others did not; but there was no doubt about their all marveling at his iron nerve.

Lu Fong advanced from the little group of Tong leaders and approached the man of questionable origin with intent determination. Before he could speak Buckwell gained an opening advantage by forcing his accusers to do the explaining.

"I have heard the ridiculous charges that our yellow friend here has made," he said to the rest of the men in the room, "and I shall be interested to learn on what he could possibly base his charge."

Buckwell's manner indicated a polite and justifiable resentment. He would not even condescend to address the Chinaman who had spread the bad news. As he finished speaking he looked around the room at the white bosses with a smile of tolerant amusement. They sighed with relief. They had many big deals pending with Buckwell and it would be disastrous to have him out of things until affairs had progressed a bit farther.

Buckwell finally looked Lu Fong in the eye with a deadly glare and said, "Well?"

All eyes turned upon the Tong leader. He did not waver. His moment had come. With a slight smile and air of absolute assurance he respectfully confronted the white bosses.

"My charges rest upon the word of a lady," he explained, "a lady of a most ancient and honorable name. She swore by the sacred memory of her Grandfather who died as a result of the doubtful one's persecution." Lu Fong paused and turned small, accusing eyes on Buckwell.

Every man in the room shifted his attention to Buckwell. They searched for some sign of the alien race, but could not be sure of detecting it. His powerful physique had been an invaluable asset for the successful masquerade.

Buckwell appeared to enjoy their scrutiny. He remained as calm and collected as before and again stole Lu Fong's thunder by asking, "I presume the lady you are speaking of the Senorita Dolores de Vasquez?"

Lu Fong nodded assent and his manifestation of surprise was a compliment to Buckwell's uncanny knowledge of the subject. The nod served to broaden the accused man's smile and with an air of triumph he turned to the onlookers.

"My dear friends—you see how foolish it is!" he exclaimed with an exaggerated show-off air. "The lady in question chances to be a guest in my home even now. I am sure she will not mind if I call her before you and disabuse your minds of any possible credence in what this malicious Chink has said."

The white men nodded and smiled. They were relieved at Buckwell's evident ability to disprove the story which would eventually react to their disadvantage as well.

Utterly ignoring the Chinamen, Buckwell summoned a servant and requested him to ask the young lady in the room at the head of the stairs to come down.

Surprised at the bewildering turn the situation had taken, the Tong men became uneasy and a bit worried. Lu Fong was so thoroughly convinced of the truth of Dolores' story as she related it in his den the night before that he did not expect the same girl to appear. He thought that he had sensed her intense hatred of Buckwell and was at a loss to understand how she would consent to remain as a guest in his home. Lu Fong was sure there was some mistake.

With a desire to give his callers a vivid impression of Dolores as a delightful part of the household, Buckwell opened the hall doors just in time to let them see her descending the staircase.

Lu Fong's speechless surprise began turning into irate fury. He had been duped and that is something a Chinaman will not endure.

Dolores entered the room and stood beside Buckwell with an obedient effort to be casual. In reality she was tense and cold with fear. She wanted the ordeal to be over without delay so that Terry could enjoy freedom and relief from torture. Her proud, exquisite head was held high and her eyes never left Buckwell's figure. She did not trust him and watched carefully to see that he, also, kept his word.

Bowing courteously before Dolores, Buckwell stepped back and significantly rested his hand on an ornate statue base. She looked closely and saw a white electric push button cleverly worked into the design. Buckwell glanced at it meaningly and Dolores understood the look.

Turning to the eagerly waiting group and then back to Dolores, he said in explanation: "It seems that there is a rumor that you have made grave accusations against me—I have asked you here to face the men to whom such a charge is of grave purport. I ask you now in their presence to truthfully affirm or deny those accusations."

He waited calmly for Dolores to speak.

The stillness in the room was intense. Each man scarcely breathed as each leaned forward in eager anticipation of what she would say. A minute passed. And another. Still Dolores did not speak. Lu Fong and the Tong men waited patiently with an air of confidence. Buckwell's hand played nervously around the push button.

Dolores watched the fingers in fascination. She knew that the slightest pressure of one of them on the button, even accidentally, meant death for the one she loved. But she also thought of her Grandfather, and dimly before her eyes she could see the great Vasquez sword with its motto, "A Vasquez Avenges a Vasquez." And she thought of her vow to avenge. But clearer than the vision and even stronger than her vow was her remembrance of the suffering on the face of the man she loved, who had risked his very life for—her. With a quick glance at the waiting audience she confronted Buckwell, but her gaze was riveted upon his hand, not his face, as she said obediently:

"I have made no accusations against you to anyone!"

CHAPTER XVIII
Hours of Peril

No greater smile of satisfaction ever suffused a man's face than spread over the well controlled features of Chris Buckwell when Dolores spoke the few words that turned Lu Fong's accusation into a lie.

"There you are!" exclaimed Buckwell triumphantly. "I am afraid, Lu Fong," he continued, "that your hatred of me has at last carried you too far."

The listeners knew that since Buckwell compelled Lu Fong to relinquish all property rights in Frisco the Chinaman was against him. But his plan for revenge had apparently been more daring than successful.

Richmond Club Told Proper Use Of The Electric Light

The proper use of the electric light in the home was discussed before the Richmond club yesterday afternoon by J. W. Wrenn, of San Francisco, a representative of the Pacific Coast Electrical association. Mrs. Tsar Calfee, chairman of the home section of the club, was in charge for the day.

Illustrations were used by the speaker to show the conditions under which light causes eye strain. The use of a general light in conjunction with a reading lamp was advised. The reason cited was that the eye must readjust itself quickly to the change when looking from a circle of light under a bridge lamp, out into the darkened room. This tires the eye, Wrenn said. He is conducting a program of education in regard to the use of light, and was a speaker before the Richmond council of Parents and Teachers recently. Mrs. S. B. Wilson, president, presided yesterday.

BILLIE DOVE IN STELLAR ROLE AT CALIFORNIA

If the beautiful Billie Dove did nothing but flash one of her radiant smiles at the picture fans, he would be worth admission price to a theatre, but in "American Beauty," which opened at the California theatre yesterday she demonstrated that behind her lovely smile there is ability to act.

Miss Dove's work in "American Beauty" is on a par with, or one might say, a shade better than her last stellar effort, "The Stolen Bride," which First National recently released.

This is the sort of picture that is entertaining but more than that, it gives young folks an inspiration to forge ahead in business and social enterprises.

While she lived in a cheap boarding house with her mother in her imagination she was always traveling in the social whirl, and carries out her pretense to the extent of having the telephone girls send her calls to the restaurant as though she were a guest at the hostelry.

She nets a wealthy youth who proposes marriage, but she has, in the meantime, fallen in love with a young chemist who lives across the hall in her boarding house.

The plot of the picture is developed at a stuffy dinner party given by her rich beau, but it would spoil prospective theatregoer's enjoyment to relate it here.

However, the lovely Miss Dove's tears, bravado and emotional actions stamp her histrionically as one of the outstanding stars of the screen.

In "American Beauty," a Richard Wallace production which he personally directed, Lloyd Hughes takes advantage of his many opportunities to win friends in the role of the young chemist, who wins the fraudulent "checker."

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Valuables Deserve Protection

With only a little effort the burglar can open the ordinary home or office safe. With greater ease he can ransack desks, bureaus, search under carpets, back of picture frames, and in all the other places that are chosen as clever and original hiding spots. Fire is an even more thorough thief. Valuables can be properly protected only in a modern safe deposit vault, which is proof against fire, burglars and all other hazards. The cost is small.

MYSTERY FILM HOLDS BOARDS AT RICHMOND

Do you like mystery? Does your spine tingle deliciously as trap doors creak and strange figures steal through the gloom?

Anna Q. Nilsson is featured and there is romance and comedy as well as mystery in this picture which George Archainbaud directed and which was produced under the management of Frank Griffin.

The plot centers about an eccentric man of wealth who is slain. Strange manifestations in the old home of the deceased supply plenty of excitement. The heroine poses as an heiress. Part of the time she is disguised as a boy. There's love interest, and Z. Williams as the colored servant supplies much merriment.

In the same cast are such favorites as Kenneth Harlan, Philco McCollough, Charles Sellon, Billy Bevan, Zack Williams and Gertrude Howard.

Sick Stomach Teaches Her a Good Lesson

Miss Jeanne Ginsberg, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "I had become accustomed to arising each day with a heavy head, dizzy and a bad taste in my mouth. My bowels were frequently clogged and constipated. One day I became so sick to my stomach I had to leave an important job and go home. I tried CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. I feel greatly relieved since using them and whenever my stomach and head goes bad I certainly know what to do."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are sugar coated, small, easy to swallow, purely vegetable, and relieve the bowels free from pain. They tonic the system as they are purely vegetable and do not contain Mercury, or poisonous drugs. Druggists, 25c. and 75c. red pkgs.

The open road

SUPPOSE you came suddenly upon two roads. One straight, well-trodden . . . the other thin and twisting off into undergrowth. If you didn't want to arrive at any place in particular, you might choose the latter. But not otherwise.

Before you, as buyer, run two roads. One is the road of knowledge of an advertised product. Thousands use it. There's no mystery about it, no doubting, nothing hidden. It leads the way definitely to a fountain pen, a floor wax, a tooth-paste that will give you satisfaction. When you use an advertisement, you use an open road.

When you don't use advertisements, you go the doubtful road. You have only hazy knowledge of the product ahead. No trade-mark or name to depend upon guides you. The result may or may not be worth the effort. You don't know.

Read the advertisements. Anything widely advertised—breakfast food, hammer, hair tonic—has proved itself good by advertising.

ADVERTISEMENTS PUT YOU ON THE OPEN ROAD TO SATISFACTION

The return of all remaining funds collected for stock of the former Richmond San Francisco Ferry company is seen as a result of a hearing held before State Railroad Commissioner Erza Docoto in San Francisco last week.

U.S.C. Notre Dame Classic To Be Attended By 116,000

By FRED VAN DEVENDER
(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 21. One hundred and sixteen thousand, roaring, partisan football fans will greet the teams of the University of Southern California and Notre Dame when they trot onto Soldiers' Field here next Saturday afternoon in the great classical windup of a great football season.

It will be the largest crowd ever to watch a football game in the United States, or anywhere else. The crowd will be exceeded only by the two Tunney-Dempsey imbroglios at Philadelphia and Chicago.

The crowd would be much larger, except that there are only so many seats, and those all were sold more than a month ago.

Scalpers already have boosted the price of their tickets from $5 to $8 and $10 and it is expected that they will go higher before game time.

Already elaborate preparations have been made to receive the west coast party when it arrives here. A representative committee composed of Vice-President Chas G. Dawes, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, Major John L. Griffith, Commissioner of big Ten Conference Athletics and representatives of Gold Coast Society will receive the team and Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles.

But the football loving public, which for the most part will make up the crowd which will see the game, are not so much interested in the reception for the teams, as they are in the actual outcome of the battle itself.

The California Trojans have a matter of a 14 to 12 defeat handed to them last year by the Irish, which they intend to even up. The Irish play to take out their spite, for their defeat at the hands of the Army, on these Pacific Coast collegians.

Oh, yes, it will be uite a game. Christy Flanagan, the romper of Notre Dame will be playing his last game in an Irish uniform, and it is rather expected that Knute K. Rockne will let him romp about as he can.

Rockne announced today that he expects his full strength for the game. Some of the injured men who have been out for the past couple of weeks will be back in the lineup.

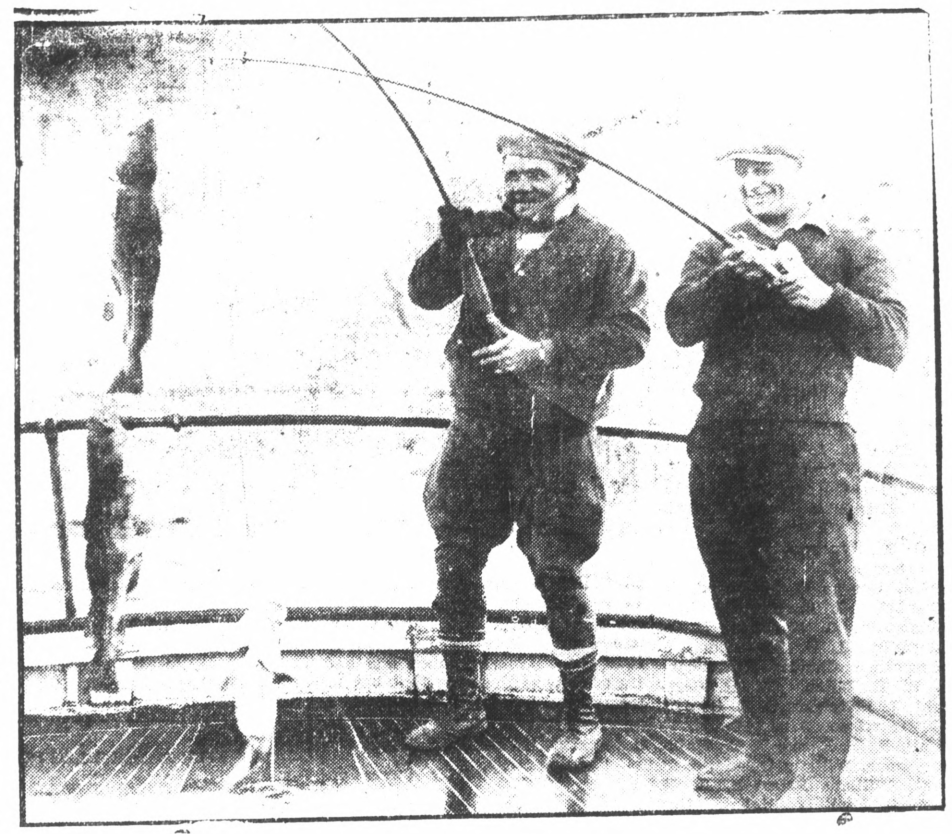

Of course, it is expected that the Trojans will center their defense on Flanagan, just as Notre Dame will center her defense on Odury, the fleet back of California.

But even so, these two are to be depended on to romp about as much as anyone else.

Weather forecasters here refused today to make any prediction as to what may be expected of the weather gods for the day. The weather will mean a great deal to the lads from the Golden State.

If the weather is as warm as it is today, then it will notbe so bad but if it suddenly turns cold, it will go rather hard on them.

The Home Run Kids Practice

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW BEFORE Buster Gehrig (right) goes fishing in Col. Ruppert's office for a big 1928 contract with the Yanks. Here's Babe, a successful angler for salary, who landed a $210,000 three-year contract last year, giving Lou some pointers on how to do it.

E. S. Barnard, new president of the American Leaue, may have to make a couple of new umpire appointments before the 1928 baseball season starts. Billy Evans, dean of American Leaue umpires, who has come very near to quitting his job several times during the last few off-seasons, again is considering several offers that will take him from behind the bat. In addition, Clarence Rowland, once manager of the White Sox and for the last eight years an American League arbiter, is another who may not return to his post next spring.

Evans, who has been at it twenty-one years and is indisputably the best umpire in either league, can make more money by relinquishing his post than he can by sticking to it, and it seems that he may make the decision this year that he has postponed for several seasons. If he goes, baseball will lose its most competent official, and one in whom both players and managers have the greatest of confidence. There's never any confusion when Evans is running a ball game.

Rowland had a couple of chances to hop back into a manager's uniform last season, when five changes were made among the managers in the American League and three in the National. He is a smart baseball man, and piloted the White Sox not only to an American League pennant in 1917 but beat the Giants in the World Series, four games to two. He has had a yen to get back on the bench again, but he passed by the chances offered him last year, preferring to stay where he was.

This year, however, with some more managerial changes slated for the American League, Rowland may go back into a pilot's harness He is popular in his league and a good umpire, and, like Evans and George Moriarity, always held the respect of the players, though their decisions sometimes weren't overly popular.

If President Barnard does have to make a couple of new appointments he will be indulging in one of the toughest assignments of his office, and one in which the highest of standards have already been firmly established by his predecessor, Ban Johnson. The American League has always had capable umpires, and baseball men who are impartial will admit that the American League progresses more smoothly and with less friction between umpires and players than in the National league. National league games may be snappier, but you'll find in the course of a year that more players are chased out of the National league games, are fined and have runs-in with umpires than in the American League. And the fault, dear Rollo, is not because the National League has more ornery ball players. It's because American League umpire have a better hold on the pastime than in the older league.

Last year, for example, one of the most notorious of National League umpire baiters never even exchanged an unpleasant frown with an umpire during his first year in the American League. That gentleman, of course, is Arthur Fletcher. The present Yankee coach grew famous or infamous as you will, while he was with the Giants and the Phillies for his pyrotechnical debates with the umpires. Good old Art was ruled off every other day. Last season he had only one argument, and that was during spring training, with Frank Wilson, a National League umpire.

The great support that Ben John always gave his umpires early impressed the futility of arguing with them upon the players. He backed them up as solidly as that Alabama delegation did old Mr. Twenty-our-Votes-for-Underwood. Yea, soldier! Disputes, squawks, kicks and all sorts of protests brouht to Johnson's office were never allowed if it was a question of the umpire's judgement against that of the injured party or club. The umpire's decision was always final, and managers and players very soon realized it. The result was that the heavy beefing stopped and the games progressed smoothly.

Local "Y" Scene Of Cage Activity

The Y. M. C. A. was busy last night with several teams having basketball practice for the winter season. The McKinley Comrade team practiced and the Community Methodist quintet also took the floor in preparation for the church league. The Abe Lincoln Pioneers had a meeting under Leader Harry Spires.

The executive committee of the church basketball league met last night and decided that games would be played at 7 and 9 o'clock on Tuesday and Fridays. A new team was admitted into the league from the San Pablo Baptist church The schedule of play will be announced soon.

The first "Service" topic will be taken up at the meeting of the Hi-Y club this evening. The subject will be "Service and Christianity."

PIN RESULTS IN S. O. LEAGUE

The Barrel House overthrew tradition last night and beat the Pipe Shop, in the Standard Oil Bowling League. The Labor Department fell before Boiler No. 2, and the Machine Shop rolled a low score, but the Engineer Department lost to them just the same. Results:

Maliks Beaten By Stringer's, Mechanic Five By Santa Fe's

Basketball last night merged to ward football when Ben Malik's boys were beaten, 23 to 8, by the hard fighting Stringer Smoke Shop team and the Santa Fe crowded out the Mechanics Bank 15 to 8 before the largest crowd that has assembled to see the city basket ball league games this season.

During the last two quarters o the Malik-Stringer fracas, one spectator was heard to ask if they "were going to begin tackling pretty soon." The game was good, hard fought, but was marred by excessive roughness.

Bertone, forward, of the Malikmen, frequently got the ball within his grasp and ran it toward the Stringer basket, but that was usually as far as he progressed. Either the ball would be intercepted or Bertone would be forced to shoot from nearly mid court. He sunk two goals in the last half. He moved so fast that his companions would be smothered by a couple of Stringer Smokers. Hutton, right forward of the Malikmen, scored two baskets and rang up two foul shots. Peters, Chattleton, Vargas and McLaughlin, all Malik boys, contributed two points each during the game. Paasch, left guard sunk one foul shot.

Barbieri, guard of the Smokers, sank almost every foul try he was accorded, scoring four points by these, besides three goals. B. Muth tall center of the Stringer team sunk two foul shots, and made two goals in the first half. Gillan, forward and Dyer, each sunk one goal.

The lineups: Malik team, Hutton, Bertone, and Peters, forwards; Chattleton and Vargar, centers; McLaughlin and Paasch, guards; Stringer Smoke shop: Gillian, Dyer, A. Muth and A. Huzefka, forwards; B. Muth and J. Huzefka, centers: Barbieri, Cornell and Tamm, guards.

The Santa Fe boys beat the Mechanics Bank by 15 to 8, with no one particular on either team, doing much individual scoring.

Villalovas of the Santa Fe squad, scored six points, and his team mates Tula, and Gualdoni contributed 1 and five points respectively. Arthurs rang two goals also. For the Mechanics Bankers Engleman made three points, two by a goal, and the rest of their points were gained by sinking foul shots. Apparently the Bankers deposited only one shot in the basket, progressional caution.

The lineups: Santa Fe, Tula, Villalovas, and Torrence, forwards; Arthurs and Torrence, centers; Gauldoni and Newman, Grandi and Vaughn, guards. Mechanics Bank, Engleman and Curali, Marcos and McDonald, forwards; Haight and Graft, centers and Abbay, McLaughlin, Davis and Duncan, guards.

Stanford And Pittsburgh To Meet On Coast New Years Day

(By Universal Service)

PALO ALTO, Nov. 21. — The Board of Athletic Control of Stanford University accepted the Tournament of Roses' committee invitation to play an Eastern team at Pasadena, January 2, it was announced.

I. E. Henry, chairman of the Tournament committee, announced that Pittsburg may be invited to be Stanford's opponent, but this depends on the outcome on the Penn State-Pittsburgh game.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—It looks like Stanford and Pittsburgh for the annual gridiron classic which will be staged at the Pasadena Rose Bowl on January 2.

That Stanford will be the western choice is regarded as a certainty. The only hurdle remaining for Pittsburgh is the Penn State game on Thanksgiving. Official announcement of the team selections for the New Year's game will be made Thursday, and it is expected the invitations will be sent out immediately.

Stanford became a certainty through the defeat of the University of California last Saturday. The worst Stanford can get in the Pacific Conference is a tie with the University of Southern California, in the event the southland boys defeat the University of Washington, December 3.

University of Southern California already has announced it would not play in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses contest.

Minnesota, Washington and Jefferson, and Georgia all have been considered as eastern possibilities Pittsburgh, however, has the inside track, and, barring an upset in its Thanksgiving game, is practically sure of being chosen.

JULIUS, THE GUARDIAN OF THE PORTALS

"But listen, Julius, it's me, it's your pal; lemme in, it's okay!" But Julius can't be conned.

"Nobody goes in," Julius barks. "Get out of here. You can't get in. Them's orders and I don't care who you are."

You flash a police card, and Julius sneers:—

Julius snarls:

And, verily, it AIN'T good there.

Julius has his own ideas of the validity of police cards and other cards. He can't read without his glasses, and he never carries his glasses on fight nights, so although you waved a personal card from Police Commissioner Warren, countersigned by Mayor Jimmy Walker and signed by Tex Rickard, Julius won't have any part of it.

"Get out of here!" he yells. "Them's orders, I tell you."

Julius is Julius Sobel. He is the guard who stands on watch outside the doors of the dressing rooms of fighters who appear at Madison Square Garden. All sorts of pests try to crash into the dressing rooms after fights and shake the hand that jarred the jaw of Risko or Delaney or Berlenbach. Julius is there to insure a measure of privacy to the fighters.

No argument budges him.

"It's your pal, Julius, it's me, your pal," you scream in desperation. And Julius snorts: "I ain't got no pals, ooscray umbay."

That's Julius. And I'm one of his pals.

HE LIKES BEST "THEM SHINNY PLAYERS"

Julius worked in the old Madison Square Garden. Originally he was a handy man. Then an elevator operater thumbed his nose at Volstead, and Julius was put in charge of the quivering old structure that shuddered up and down the cables.

Pests tried to crash that elevator.

Julius at least was impartial. He threw them all off.

It was while chaperoning that trick elevator in the old Garden that Julius developed the ouster complex. He ousts them from force of habit. Instead of saying "Hello," Julius naturally says: "Get out of here."

Julius, I understand, owns an apartment house in Brooklyn. The tips he gets from fight managers and fighters are all saved by him.

However, he has his own rating of the professional athletes. He has gone sour on the fighters. It seems that the fighters whose dressing room he guards don't get paid off until the following day. And often enough they don't come back to reward Julius as they should. This, to him, is downright treachery.

He likes the professional hockey players best. The Canadians, he says value his unselfish service. They realize that his talents are far beyond the ordinary. They express that appreciation in substantial measures.

"Them shinny players are my pals," Julius tells you. "Them fighters are bums and low-lifes."

JOHN THE BAPTIST AND HIS CATS

Julius is rapidly becoming a Madison Square Garden tradition. He has taken the play away from John the Baptist, who has worked there for the past thirty years.

Francis Albertanti named him John the Baptist, although his monicker is John L. Sullivan.

Often the night when he helped William H. Vanderbilt to alight: "A fine evening for fine sports, Mr. Vanderbilt," John the Baptist would say, motioning aside the footman who sought to open the door. "Yes, John," would answer Mr. Vanderbilt.

But age comes on apace. John the Baptist is now night watchman at the new Garden and perhaps in the shadows that envelope his vigil he sees again John L. Sullivan, Charlie Mitchell, Tom Sharkey, Ketchell and other great fighters he met at 26th Street.

John the Baptist has one hobby.

He likes cats. Every stray cat is welcome. John the Baptist feeds them milk and meat out of his own money. At feeding time, the purring sounds like the rush of a plane motor.

"That's my fighting stable," John the Baptist explains. "And I keep my stable busy all the time. They're in the Garden every night. No manager can do better than that."

ALL RICHMOND WINS VICTORY FROM TIGERS

Playing in a rain-drenched muddy field, the All-Richmonds won another game Sunday afternoon by defeating the San Francisco Tigers by a score of 27 to 0.

Plunging their way to victory, the local team crushed the strong aggregation from across the bay, a team that has a number of wins to its credit.

In the second quarter of the game, John Walker, manager of the local team, [illegible] a sprained ankle that will keep him out of the game for some days. His position at halfback was taken by John Gonsalves, who played for his first time on the team and was one of the players that carried the ball across the goal for a touchdown. This he did on a lineplunge. Other members of the team responsible for touchdowns were Art Heley who intercepted a pass, and Dutch Holand and Charley Baldwin who made their scores on line plunges.

The Richmond lineup for the game was as follows:

Lee Vargas, r. e.; Heley, l.g.; Baldwin, c.; Boneville, r. g.; Pharo, l. t.; Walker, f.; Holland, q.; Heley, h. b. and Carson, h. b. Substitutes were Gonsalves for Walker; Nozighia for Baldwin; Doty for Diamantini and Aikin for Pharo.

The team will play its first game away from home on Thanksgiving day when they meet the Stockton Amblers. Strengthened by new players including Louis Lavenue, halfback, the men are confident of success for the remainder of the season.

Next Sunday they meet the crack Ashby athletic club of Berkeley on Nicholl field.

Spartans Defeat Trojan Cagers

The Spartans defeated the Trojans in a fast Boys League game on the Roosevelt gymn floor last night by a score of 23 to 8. The Trojans played well but were unable to stand up before the fast Spartans who put up a strong defense keeping their rivals from getting beyond the center of the floor throughout the greater part of the game.

Star hoop snaggers for the Spartans were Williams, 4 and one foul; Melin, 3; Pinto, one basket and one foul; Swenson 2 fouls and one basket and Lester Jackson, one foul.

Trojans stars were De Baere, Gordon and Kenny, each one basket; Hall and Lane each one foul.

SNAP IN GOLD STOCKS

I have a snap in gold mining stocks to offer, the like of which I never had before and never expect to have again. In $100 lots, at easy monthly payments, at a price that is far below value. My judgment is that it will bring a profit of 1000 percent or more in reasonably short time. I have invested $1,000 in it personally and would have taken more if I could have afforded it. Owner is in a jam and must raise money. For particulars call on or address

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO BE MADE LARGER

Work will be started today by P. M. Sanford, contractor, for alterations to the addition of the First Presbyterian church whereby the seating capacity of the church will be increased. The improvements, according to a building permit issued yesterday by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley will cost $400. This amount was raised by cash donations at a special meeting held following the regular service Sunday noon at which time members of the church approved the alterations.

The pulpit and choir loft of the church will be located in the south end of the building, making possible the use of the entire Sunday school wing for additional seating space. The present seating system as well as the floor of the auditorium will have to be changed to meet the new requirements.

A new church to be constructed next year is being planned by the members. Property has been acquired adjoining the present structure. Rev. Earl W. Haney, pastor of the church, stated that it would not be possible to complete the church within a year as the matter of financing the new building and actual construction would take at least that length of time.

A committee composed of W. A. Boone, chairman, Mrs. J. S. Spires, Mrs. Walter Crabb, Mrs. C. R. Alexander, J. H. Plate and F. S. Newsom was appointed at the meeting Sunday to take preliminary steps on plans and specifications for the new church.

PILGRIM DAY PROCLAIMED BY MAYOR

On the last Thursday in November, 1621, the little group of Pilgrims who had settled on the rugged coast of New England gathered to give thanks to God for the blessings he had bestowed upon them. Few, indeed, were the blessings of those days compared with those of today.

On next Thursday, the last Thursday in November, 1927, the peoples of the United States will pause from their labors to renew this beautiful custom. The people of Richmond have especial cause to give thanks this year. It has been a fruitful year for Richmond; one in which our labors have been crowned with much success, and with signal advancement of our spiritual and social welfare.

Now, Therefore, I, as mayor of the City of Richmond, call upon all the people of the city to join in this Day of Thanksgiving and to gather at their respective places of worship, to offer up thanks for the manifold acts of a kind providence. May we all join in making this a day of true and devout Thanksgiving.

MATTIE A. CHANDLER,
Mayor of the City of Richmond.

PROPERTY YARD GETS PROTEST IN EL CERRITO

Protests were received Monday night by the council of El Cerrito on the building of a property yard on the city's lots on Kearney street by the residents in that district stating that it would be unsightly and lower the value of the property in that section.

The protests were referred to City Superintendent of Streets Forrest Wright to explain exactly the kind of buildings to be erected. If residents still object the city will have to find another location for its yard, it was said.

A permit to hold a dance in the El Cerrito Athletic Club till 2 a. m., December 3 was granted the El Cerrito Baseball Club.

A Swanburg, local property owner, stated in a letter to the council that the contractor putting in the streets in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract had ruined shrubs and trees on his property to the extent of $100 and had broken the windows in his home.

The communication was referred to City Engineer Ross L. Calfee for one week.

Petition for a street light on Allen street between Blake and Hill streets was referred to light commercier Phil A. Lee.

An appropriation of $75 asked by the El Cerrito Social Service Bureau was laid over for one week.

Protest, with about twenty signatures of property owners on San Pablo avenue against the granting of permits for the erecting of shacks on the avenue was laid over till next Monday on account of the absence of City Attorney Wilbur S. Pierce.

The protests were filed because of an application to erect a frame building to sell sandwiches to be known as the Kentucky Stables.

Following are the amounts of money on hand according to the report of City Treasurer Cora J. M. Simonson: Fire Bond Redemption Fund, $1581.74; Motor Vehicle Fund, $9,619; and General Fund, $7,602.61.

Tilden Moves To Oakland Hotel

With the removal of the Oakland headquarters of the Tilden Lumber company to High street, E. M. Tilden, Eastbay capitalist and lumber dealer, has closed his Mira Vista home and has taken apartments in the Hotel Leamington in Oakland.

Winter travel to the East Oakland plant of the Tilden interests is given as the reason for the change of address. At the new location which embraces 41 acres Tilden has combined the activities there of the National Mill and Lumber company, the Pacific Pipe and Tank company and the Tilden Lumber company. The latest of modern methods of handling the lumber have been installed and the waterfront locattion facilitates water shipments.

Scout Troop Number 4 Plans Activities For Next Month

ABOVE you see Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns in the days when they were starting out together. Get a load of the trick outfits the boys wore in the days before the million dollar gates. Pipe the form fitting trousers which wrapped the dapper Doc Kearns' legs, and please, oh please, lookit the mink collars on the greatcoats. # BUS FOR EAST RICHMOND WILL BE CONSIDERED

With the abandonment of the San Pablo avenue car line into East Richmond a matter of days and the temporary bus line now in operation by the Key System traction company scheduled to be abandoned on or about December 13, the Chamber of Commerce through its transportation committee will meet with Mayor Mattie Chandler and members of the City Council at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning to discuss the proposition of establishing an independent bus service at the moment the present transportation service ceases operation.

Under the agreement between the Key System Transit Company and the City of Richmond, the latter has agreed to honor transfers of an independent bus line connecting with the present Macdonald avenue line into downtown Richmond.

The purpose of the meeting Wednesday between the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee and the city council members is to determine what is the best course to pursue. The recent decision of the railroad commission on East Bay car fares will also come before the meeting.

To meet with the Chamber of Commerce committee, Mayor Chandler last evening appointed Councilmen Paulsen, Martin and Fenner. The members of the Chamber of Commerce committee consists of Harry Alberts, Henry A. Johnston, Fred B. LaMoine and J. H. Plate.

President P. M. Sanford of the Chamber of Commerce has sent out the call for the special meeting.

The present bus line operated by the transit company is only temporary and will likely cease on December 13th when the final hearing on the Richmond situation is held before the State Railroad Commission.
